
Natural Intelligence

Only those species and organisms survive who are able to enrich their environment and the planet Earth as a whole.

Neither the Darwinists, nor the smartests, but those who raise the vitality and the value of life for us all.

That's why termites invest in 'making-green', mushrooms invest in 'making-rain', wales invest in 'making-oxygen', wolves invest in 'making-life', trees invest in 'making-weather'.

Planet Earth with all its geology, biology and levels of spiraling consciousness, is just One profound living Being, driven by this law of Natural Intelligence, striving for ever higher viable complexity.

Let's face it before it is too late.
