Kanchanaburi Haiku

Two Buddha's standing, open hands touching, caring, helping, embracing

Bridge over the River Kwai,
one life, one sleeper
The Last Post blasts for each of them

Mates through life and death, bonds melted at Hellfire Pass, still singing their songs

Just one eye lost on the Railway track, shipwreck and taboo Engagement

Seven Waterfalls

pouring clear words into pools full of deaf man's ears

Jacob Adler, 2024

Streams flowing into Mon Lake, drowning kosmic church and monastery

Abbot's oldtimer, preserved in glass, to cross his long wooden bridge

Grateful people of all age paying tribute to his Contributions

Monks, standing in line with their alms bowls for breakfast, laughing and blessing

Bridge over the River Kwai
One Life, One Sleeper
Wait, the whistle is screaming

Jacob Adler, 2024
